END OF CAMP BLACK NEAR

THE END OF CAMP BLACK NEAR GREAT INTEREST AMONG THE MEN AT HEM!

STEAD IN GENERAL FRANK'S ORDER. The news that reached Camp Black yesterday from Governor's Island shout the approaching re-moval of the three regiments now in camp to the forts around New-York was received with the greatest interest. General Pennington was in the city until evening, and in his absence the announcement of the removal could not be made officially, but it was the main topic of conversation in the tents. With few exceptions the men are weary of Camp Flack, and they will be glad to move, although they had hoped that assignments one of the big Army stations in the South would fall to their lot.

General Frank's order doubtless means that the end of Camp Black's usefulness is near, inasqueh as the new regiments of volunteers are to be sent as the new regiments of volunteers are to to Montauk Point, according to the present ar rangement. The exact time of the departure of the let, 6th and 22d regiments is not known but they are not expected to go for a day or two. There will be much speculation among the battalions of the three regiments as to the particular stations to which they will be assigned by their

One officer and four men will be detailed from each battalion to do the recruiting. The first appointments for this work were made in the 4th Regiment, in which Colonel Eddy selected Lieutenant Sturrell, of Company C, and Lieutenant Gliman, of company D, to recruit the two hundred men needed for the let and 3d battalions. The punishment of disobedient and disorderly soldiers continues. Private Reginald Wallace, of Company I, 22d Regiment, who stayed away too long on leave, was sentenced to pay 129 fine and twenty days of hard labor. Private William C. Valentine, of Company A. 47th Regiment, was fined $10 and sentenced to two months of hard work for intoxication and disorderly conduct. Privates Rode and Wallace, of Company H. 47th Regiment, will be tried to-day on the charge of stealing provisions from their courades.

The nondescript uniforms and civilian clothes which have hitherto en worn by the members of the battery were discarded yesterday, and the attractive new blue uniforms were donned for the first time. As they stood in line, drawn up for inspection, in their full equipments, the men presented an exceptionally smart, soldierly appearance. The new sabres were also distributed at the early drill. The sabre is maller than the usual cavairy sword, and in shape s curved like a marine cutlass. Its hilt is of black corrugated rubber, the handguard of polished brass, while the scabbards are made of dull fron. Each artilleryman, in addition to his uniform, has seen provided with two dark-blue shirts, a regulacampaign slouch hat, with the words "Asto Battery" in brass on the front. Their kit includes a cool suit of linen and a large pith helmet, to protect them from the sun when operating in the field at Manila. The men have also been supplied with a copy of the "School of the Cannoneer," giving full instructions in the regulation arthury tactics, and on the care of mules on the march and neamp.

Throughout yesterday the drills were continued with the Hotehkies guns and revolvers. In anticipation of the speedy departure of the battery the former strict discipline was somewhat relaxed between the drills. Opportunity was given to relatives and friends, who visited the armory in large numbers all through the day, to bid farewell to the artillerymen. Leutenant March expects that he will receive his official instructions to start Westward early this morning, and in that event the battery will leave New-York about moon.

The Astor Battery will not go to the from without its mascot. It is a small black dog, named "Nig." and has a history of its own. He was born on the Kearsarge, but as the new battle-ship is not yet ready for sea, and as he is full of patriotic anxiety to get to the front, he has deserted the Navy to follow the fortunes of the Astor Battery. He will wear in full dress parades a blue and scarlet blanket, and a miniature belt and hoister, containing a top pistol. A brass collar has also heen presented to him, bearing the inscription, "We'll Remember the Maine."

The following have been appointed sergeants: Holmes, Cremens, Lester K. Young, Beacham, Silliman and Williamson. Hills, Van Horn, Baker, Walker, Crocker and Burbank have been made corporals.

SOME DRAWBACKS TO "JUMPING."

Washington, June 7 .- The death of Captain Gridley has removed one of the officers set down for advancement over their seniors on account of the victory of Manila. The promotions recommended by the President are the subject of much talk between naval officers. Those who did not participate in the battle are naturally displeased at being "jumped," and they are pointing cut the evils of the practice, among them being the probability that some of the very officers advanced are likely to be in turn "jumped." and so practically set back by some of the officers now on duty with Sampson's fleet who may distinguish themselves in battle. These officers are urging that it would be only prudent and fair to go slowly in the matter of making promotions of this character and to wait until the war is ended, when all the mer terious officers may be rewarded in strict accordance with that merit

PROF. HATFIELD ENLISTS IN THE NAVY.

Chicago, June 7 .- Professor James Taft Hatfield, who has stood at the head of the German department of the Northwestern University for the last seven years, has resigned his place, temporarily, to join the Navy. He left his home, in Evanaton, last week, for Newport News, where he passed the examination for a place as seaman. He returned to Evanston last night, and bade goodby to his friends, at the home of his mother, Elizabeth Hatfield, and he will start for the front to-day with the just detachment of Illinois Naval Reserves, who go to join Sampson's fleet. "I enlisted simply from a desire to serve my ountry," he explained, "as I have had some experience as a seaman. It is the realization of a long-

IN THE CONNECTICUT CAMP. FOUR COMPANIES OF THE FIRST REGIMENT TO BE SENT TO FORT KNOX, MAINE.

Camp Haven, Nientle, Coun., June 7 (Special).— The 298 members of the Naval Reserve Battalion awoke after their first night in the tents to greet a sunshing day. After a wash in buckets of water from the pump they are heartly of their breaksix colored servants to do the menial labor, and on this account the envious soldiers, who detail men from their own ranks as cooks, kitchen police and chambermaids, have dubbed the arrivals the their blue flannel for white duck garments, and went through their first drill in camp. At noon Commander Edward G. Buckland and Surgeon Sayres, U. S. N., arrived and began examining the toward recruiting the regiment and batteres up to the standard.

Colonel Burdett of the 1st Regiment te-night received from the Quartermaster's Department at Governor's Island a telegram which indicates that the four companies of the 1st which remain here will be sent to Fort Khox. Maine. The telegram inquires what arrangements shall be made for transportation and subsistence of the four companies and the field and sixff officers, and asks if the troops can be ready to go on Thursday motning. Colonel Burdett expects definite orders to move to-morrow. The news is received with delight by the men, who are heartly sick of the humdrum life at Camp Haven.

COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET.

A reaction in prices, although not a large one. shorts. The crop prospects, the reports of railroad carnings, the condition of the money market and the outlook for a continuance of American successes in the war were as favorable as they have been all along, and about the only thing which could be supposed to be a bear factor was the fact that prices in London were lower. On heavy selings by large operators, however, prices declined, but the course of the market could not have been satisfactory to the short interest. Their effort at inducing extensive liquidation was a failure, very little long stock being forced upon the market, and the volume of public buying diminished with the decline in values. After the seding movement subsided, in the afternoon, the market railled, favorable reports from Santiago alding in the recovery, and early losses in many lessues were fully regained, the losses which were not made good being in several instances only fractional. The low-priced stocks showed much more strength than the higher ones, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and American Spirits preferred made not gains for the day, respectively, of 2% and 2% per cent, the former in consequence of the Court of Appeals decision dissolving the injunction restraining the Brooklyn Bridge management from allowing loops to be laid across the Bridge entrance on this side for the accommodation of the Brooklyn Tralley-Cars. cesses in the war were as favorable as they have

He charges the officers of the 112th with absorbing into other companies the men recruited by him, without giving him credit for the work and the expenditure incurred. He added that the only reward he had obtained for his endeavors was a threat of courtmartial made to him by Colonel Denny on Monday night.

They questioned it on the ground that the registration was a feature qualification, and was exclusively within the province of state powers and not a matter of "times, places and manner" contemplated in the Constitution. Mr. Lacey expressed the opinion that the bill's provision affecting elections qualifications was constitutional as being warranted in an implied Federal power incident to the express power granted to Congress to make or alter regulations affecting

The further consideration of the measure precipitated a prolonged colloury, in which many memtimes, pinces and manner of holding elections, bors joined. THE CENSUS BILL BRINGS ON A DISCUSSION FALSE STORIES ABOUT THE ALERT'S COAL-ING AND A GUANO CLAIM.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBENE.] Washington, June 7.—Several papers in this coun-try published on May 27 a telegram, dated at San try published on May 27 a telegram, dated at San Francisco, saying:

Officers of the United States steamer Alert say that vigorous measures had to be taken by the old cruiser to secure coal on her recent trip up from South America. At Acapuico, a Messican town, of which half the inhabitants are Spanish, the captain applied to a steamship company for coal. He was told that he could have coal at the rate of $39 per ton in gold, provided he took it himself, as the company could not deliver it. The captain accordingly took nossession of a lighter and sent the ship's marine guard to protect the coal-passers. When they arrived at the wharf it was crowded with natives, who attempted to prevent the coal leaving the dock. The marines cleared the wharf with a bayonet charge and then stretched a rope across, leaded their rifles, and informed the natives that the first one to cross the rope would be shot. After that 150 tons were loaded on the ship without further molestation.

Previous efforts had been made through the Consul to secure coal, but without success.

The Mexican Minister at Washington reported that fact to the Mexican Government, and he has received a communication from the Mexican State Department dated at the City of Mexica on March 10, in which it is stated that the rumor is entirely without foundation.

Washington, June 7 .- The conference report on the Postoffice Appropriation bill, as reported to the Senate to-day and agreed to by that body, carries a provision for the appropriation of $150,000 for rural free delivery. This is a compromise, the House having appropriated $300,000 and the Senate having refused to make any appropriation. ment also includes the Senate amendment for a joint committe of the two houses to investigate the Joint committe of the two houses to investigate the question of excessive charges by railroad companies for mail transportation. The Senate receded from its amendment reducing the total appropriation for pay of letter-carriers from $13.00.000 to $12.00.000, restoring the House figures, and also from its amendment providing against more than four deliveries daily in any city. The temporary provision for postoffices at military camps during the war was retained. The amendment prohibiting the letting of contracts to sub-contractors was eliminated, as was that making it a misdemeanor for railroad companies to refuse to carry the United Stares mails.
